... Canon 60D 50MP 4-Canon is getting hot, the new Canon EOS 60D/ Rebel T2i/ 60D (5D Mark II) sports a new combination of full frame sensor (Canon's first), greater resolution and a host of features the 60D will bring to the table. This upgrade is all about the 24-105L IS lens. For some time, there has been anticipation among many photographers to have a full frame body with full frame 24-105mm lens. This should have been the holy grail. And finally, Canon delivered the perfect package. I have been testing the 60D for several weeks now. This camera is the perfect balance of performance, features, form factor and affordability for the average digital photographer. Canon 60D v3.0 Professional version with Canon Log v1.2 and an EVF screen are already shipping. The Canon 60D is set to become a top choice in the DSLR camera market. It is because of its IQ, build and features. At the same time the 60D is quite affordable and it is capable of delivering superb image quality in the studio and on the fly. In this review, we are going to discuss about Canon 60D vs. Nikon D7000 vs. 5D Mark II. Some of the pro pictures are loaded on this site. Systematics of the blabbermouth leafhopper genus Allotrichodes Horvath (Hemiptera: Cicadellidae: Cicadellinae: Clastriini): description of a new species from South America and its position in the family. Allotrichodes is a genus of blabbermouth leafhoppers which occurs from the United States to Argentina. It is difficult to assign members of the genus with confidence to species groups, because their distribution is extremely wide and may have been influenced by recent human activity. Only a single species, A. nigricans, is known from South America, and its relationship to the type species, A. argentina, is unknown. Here we describe a new species, A. laotica, from the south-western part of Argentina and provide a molecular phylogeny of the genus. The new species is similar to A. argentina in having broadly fused male terminalia, however 82157476af
